(Special to The Herald.) Farmington, May 26.-Nathan Fisher Haworth was placed on trial for his life today in the Second district court for the murder of Thomas Sandall of Layton, new quarters at 51 South Eighth East who was found dead near his cot in the employed as night watchman, on the morning of March 29, 1899.

Judge Polapp denied a motion for a change of venue made by Attorney A. J. Weber of councel for the defense, and the work of impaneling a jury was commenced at 1 o'clock this afternoon. When an adjournment was taken at 5:45 ten men had been examined on their voir dire by the defense, three of whom were challenged and excused. The other two will be examined on Monday morning by the defense, and then the prosecution will take a hand. It will probably be late on Monday before the first juror is accepted and sworn. When the panal will be completed is purely a matter of conjecture, though it will almost certainly not be before Thugsday.

The prisoner was brought into court at 9:30 by Sheriff Abbott. He occupied a seat within a few feet of the jury box, and near his attorneys, A. J. Weber and J. M. Hamilton. Throughout the proceedings he sat calmly listening to the arguments and questions put to the jurors, and no evidence of emotion or excitement was visible in his countenance or in his manner. He seemed no more interested in what was happening than were scores of the spectators who sat outside of the bar.

Mrs. Sandall, the widow of the mur-Weber of counsel for the defense, and Attorney A. J. Weber, counsel for the defendant, made a formal motion for a change of venue, supporting the motion with a statement that he had affidavits from people inside and outside of the county alleging that bitter and intense hatred against the defendant exists among the people of Davis county, which would prevent the defendant from receiving a fair and impartial trial. He then read the affidavits.

Attorney Weber then read several arti-

Joseph Sandall, one of those called into the box, is a brother of the nightwatchman for whose death Haworth is on that proper to the term.

The examination of the jurors by Attorney Weber covered a wide range, relations of the juror with E. P. Ellison, the complainant, with the witnesses and with the attorneys for the prosecution. The question of whether the juror had read in the papers the reports of the murder and of the arrest and examination of the defendant was closely inquired into.

Insanity the Defense.

The line of defense that will probably be followed was revealed, in part at least, by the form of questioning as to the credence the juror would place on a defense of insanity, as to whether there was any prejudice against such a line of defense. Each juror was also asked if he had any prejudice against the proving of an alibi.

The examination commenced with Andrew J. Egbert of Layton, who was challenged on account of implied bias, owing to close business relations with E. P. Ellison, the complainant. He was excused for the term. The line of defense that will probably Willis Perkins of Wood's Cross, Joseph Parker of Roy, George S. Rogers of Farmington. Albert T. Smith of Kaysville and John Duncan of Centerville were passed by the defense.

At this point court adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

whether it was his brother, Father John J. O'Donnell, who was an inmate of the Providence Retreat at Buffalo, still the word he had received tended to confirm that belief.

At the Church of the Sacred Heart Father Rhodes, an assistant, said:
"From what I have heard concerning the unfortunate occurrence, there seems little doubt that the suicide is Father O'Donnell."

Father Rhodes further said that some few years ago Father O'Donnell gradually became insane from melancholy. Father O'Donnell, he said, was induced to travel through the south and Europe, in the hope of regaining his health

The distinguished minister who is accompanied on his present trip by his wife, is quite a traveier, having spent several years in mission work in the island of Singapore. Today he holds the position of secretary of the foreign mission committee of the Presbyterian church of England. The occasion of his visit to San Francisco is to study Chinatown in that city and later in Vancouver. The reverend gentleman is incidentally a firm believer in the justice of the present war in South Africa. In a land, he said, where the Boers would not allow the Kaffirs to marry without first getting out a license for which they had to pay 23, such things should be put a stop to, and if anyone ought to do it why it was England's right. In the Transvaal, the England's right in the Boer worse
